Morgan

MACK MORGAN was born on Morgam Lane 1-1-1899 . His father was John Younghusband Morgan born in N.Y. City 6-29-1851 died 5-29-1927. His mother was Margaret Pol 2-17-1858 - 11-5-1948 Both are buried at Machpelah Cemetery.

Margaret's parents were Miguel Pol born in Spain 4-11-1838 - died 9-4-1897 and Manuel Valverde born 4-13-1840 both buried [illegible] Greenwood Cemetery.

Mack's grandfather brought his two sailing ships from Staten Island N.Y. to Pascagoula long before the Civil War and engaged in the lumber trade in 1874. His two ships were the schooner URIAH and TABITHA. He brought oranges and corn from Mexico.

His father sailed the seas for several years before coming ashore and setting up a Livery Stable and Undertaking business at eh corner of Delmas and Frederic St.

Mack worked in his Father's business hauling lumber from the mill to ships and at other jobs. His father also sold coal, coal oil and gasoline. He was the first Standard Oil dealer in this area. He recalled the days of yellow fever when his father was kept busy day and night burying the dead.

Mack decided to attend college. He had stays at Ole Miss, Tulane, L.S.U. and Southeastern La. Where he received his degree. He took his first teaching job in Pascagoula in 1912 and used his first pay check to join the Masonic Lodge. He spent 43 yrs. in the class room as principal and Superentendant of Pascagoula schools 1924 - 1928 at a salary of $ 2, 400. 00. He was Jackson Co. Supt. of Education 1952 - 1956 from which he retired in 1965. While teaching he organized the first football and basketball teams.

He was the first zoing officer of Jackson County for 15 years and retired in 1973. His hobby was knitting fish nets.

The house he was born in on Morgan lane was moved from Bayou La Bratre in 1868 for his mother after the death of her husband.

He describes his wife as "a long suffering, kind hearted woman who feels sorry for weak-minded folks." She describes him as "one of a kind. They threw away the mold when they made him."

Mack did a book on his family which included Davidson, MacPeters, Valverde, Pol, Huggins, Bosarge and many others. It is at the Library in the Gen. room.

MARSHALL McLELLAN MORGAN

A Confederate Girl's Diary

Baton Rouge, Louisiana, March 9th 1862.

Here I am, at your service, Madame Idleness, waiting for any suggestion it may please you to put in my weary brain, as a means to pass this dull, cloudy Sunday afternoon; for the great Pike clock over the way has this instant struck only half-past three; and if a rain is added to the high wind that has been blowing ever since the month commenced, and prevents my going to Mrs. Brunot's before dark, I fear I shall fall a victim to "the blues" for the first time in my life. Indeed it is dull. Miriam went to Linewood with Lydia yesterday, and I miss them beyond all expression. Miriam is so funny! She says she cannot live without me, and yet she can go away, and stay for months without missing me in the slightest degree. Extremely funny! And I—well, it is absurb to fancy myself alive without Miraim. She would rather not visit with me, and yet, be it for an hour or a month, I never halfway enjoy myself without her, away from home. Miriam is my "Rock ahead" in ife; I'll founder on her yet. It's a grand sight for people out of reach, who will not come in contact with the breakers, but it is quite another thing to me, perpetually dancing on those sharp points in my little cockle-shell that forms so ludicrous a contrast to the grand scene around. I am sure to founder!

I hold that every family has a heart one genius, in some line, no matter what—except in our family, where each is a genius, in his own way. Hem! And Miriam has a genius for the piano. Now I never could bear to compete with anyone, knowing that it is the law of my being to be inferior to others, consequently to fail, and failure is so humiliating to me. So it is,that people may force me to abandon any pursuit by competing with me; for knowing that failure is inevitable, rather than fight against destiny I give up de bonne grace. Originally, I was said to have a talent for the piano, as well as Miriam. Sister and Miss Isabella said I would make a better musician than she, having more patience and perseverance. However, I took hardly six months' lessons to her ever so many years; heard how well she played, got disgusted with myself, and gave up the piano at fourteen, with spasmodic fits of playing every year or so. At sixteen, Harry gave me a guitar. Here was a new field where I would have no competitors. I knew no one who played on it; so I set to work, and taught myself to manage it, mother only teaching me how to tune it. But Miriam took a fancy to it, and I taught her all I knew; but as she gained, I lost my relish, and if she had not soon abandoned it, I would know nothing of it now. She does not know half that I do about it; they tell me I play much better than she; yet they let her play on it in company before me, and I cannot pretend to play after. Why is it? It is not vanity, or I would play, confident of excelling her. It is not jealousy, for I love to see her show her talents. It is not selfishness; I love her too much to be selfish to her. What is it then? "Simply lack of self-esteem" I would say if there was no phrenologist near to correct me, and point out that well-developed hump at the extreme southern and heavenward portion of my Morgan head. Self-esteem or not, Mr. Phrenologist, the result is, that Miriam is by far the best performer in Baton Rouge, and I would rank forty-third even in the delectable village of Jackson.

And yet I must have some ear for music. To "know as many songs as Sarah" is a family proverb; not very difficult songs, or very beautiful ones, to be sure, besides being very indifferently sung; but the tunes will run in my head, and it must take some ear to catch them. People say to me, "Of course you play?" to which I invariably respond, "Oh, no, but Miriam plays beautifully!" "You sing, I believe?" "Not at all–except for father" (that is what I used to say)—"and the children. But Miriam sings." "You are fond of dancing?" "Very; but I cannot dance as well as Miriam." "Of course, you are fond of society?" "No, indeed! Miriam is, and she goes to all the parties and returns all visits for me." The consequence is, that if the person who questions is a stranger, he goes off satisfied that "Miriam must be a great girl; but that little sister of hers—! Well! a prig, to say the least!"

So it is Miriam catches all my fish—and so it is, too, that it is not raining, and I'm off.

April 7th

Until that dreary 1861, I had no idea of sorrow or grief... How I love to think of myself, but as some happy, careless child who danced through life, loving God's whole world too much to love any particular one, outside of her own family. She was more childish then—yet I like her for all her folly; I can say it now, for she is as dead as though she was lying underground.

Now do not imagine that Sarah has become an aged lady in the fifteen months that have elapsed since, for it is no such thing; her heart does ache occasionlly, but that is a secret between her and this little rose-wood furnished room; and when she gets over it, there is no more fond of making wheelbarrows of children, or of catching Charlie or mother by the foot and making them play lame chicken... Now all this done by a young lady who remembers eighteen months ago with so much regret that she has lost so much of her high spirits—might argue that her spirits were before tremendous; and yet they were not. That other Sarah was ladylike, I am sure, in her wildest moments, but there is something hurried and boisterous in this one's tricks that remind me of some one who is making a merit of being jolly under depressing circumstances. No! that is not a nice Sarah now, to my taste.

The commencement of '61 promised much pleasure for the rest of the year, and though Secession was talked about, I do not believe any one anticipated the war that has been desolating our country ever since, with no prospect of terminating for some time to come. True the garrison was taken, but then several pleasant officers of the Louisiana army were stationed there, and made quite an agreeable addition to our small parties, and we did not think for a moment that trouble would grow out of it—at least, we girls did not. Next Louisiana seceded, but still we did not trouble ourselves with gloomy anticipations, for many strangers visited the town, and our parties, rides, and walks grew gayer and more frequent.

One little party—shall I ever forget it?—was on the 9th of March, I think; such an odd, funny little party! Such queer things happened! What a fool Mr. McG— made of himself! Even more so than usual. But hush! It's not fair to laugh at a lady—under peculiar circumstances. And he tried so hard to make himself agreeable, poor fellow, that I ought to like him for being so obedient to my commands. "Say something new; something funny," I said, tired of a subject on which he had been expatiating all the evening; for I had taken a long ride with him before sunset, he had escorted me to Mrs. Brunot's, and here he was still at my side, and his conversation did not interest me. To hear, with him, was to obey. "Something funny? Well—" here he commenced telling something about somebody's having "knocked his shins" against something else. I only listened to the latter part; I was bored, and showed it. "Shins!" was I to laugh at such a story?

April 12th

Day before yesterday, just about this time of evening, as I came home from the graveyard, Jimmy unexpectedly came in. Ever since the 12th of February he has been waiting on the Yankees' pleasure, in the Mississippi, at all places below Columbus, and having been under fire for thirteen days at Tiptonville, Island No. 10 having surrendered Monday night; and Commodore Hollins thinking it high time to take possession of the ironclad ram at New Orleans, and give them a small party below the forts, he carried off his little aide from the McRae Tuesday morning, and left him here Thursday evening, to our infinite delight, for we felt as though we would never again see our dear little Jimmy. He has grown so tall, and stout, that it is really astonishing, considering the short time he has been away.... To our great distress, he jumped up from dinner, and declared he must go to the city on the very next boat. Commodore Hollins would need him, he must be at his post, etc., and in twenty minutes he was off, the rascal, before we could believe he had been here at all. There is something in his eye that, like Hal, he will die young.

And these days that are going by remind me of Hal, too. I am walking in our footsteps of last year. The eighth was the day we gave him a party, on his return home. I see him so distincly standing near the pier table, talking to Mr. Sparks, whom he had met only that morning, and who, three weeks after, had Harry's blood upon his hands. He is a murderer now, without aim or object in life, as before; with only one desire—to die—and death still flees from him, and he Dares not rid himself of life.

All those dancing there that night have undergone trial and affliction since. Father is dead, and Harry, Mr. Trezevant lies at Corinth with his skull fractured by a bullet; every young man there has been in at least one battle since, and every woman has cried over her son, brother, or sweetheart, going away to the wars, or lying sick and wounded. And yet we danced that night, and never thought of bloodshed! The week before Louisiana seceded, Jack Wheat stayed with us, and we all liked him so much, and he thought so much of us; —and last week—a week ago today—he was killed on the battle-field of Shiloh.

April 16th.

Among the many who visited us, in the beginning of 1861, there was Mr. Bradford. I took a dislike to him the first time I ever saw him, and, being accustomed to say just what I pleased to all the other gentlemen, tried it with him. It was at dinner, and for a long while I had the advantage, and though father would sometimes look grave, Gibbes and all at my end of the table, would scream with laughter. At last Mr Bradford commenced to retaliate, and my dislike changed into respect for a man who could make an excellent repartee with perfect good-breeding; and after dinner, when the others took their leave, and he asked permission to remain, during his visit, which lasted until ten o'clock, he had gone over such a variety of subjects, conversing so well upon all, that Miriam and I were so interested that we forgot to have gas lit!

April 17th.

And another was silly little Mr. B——r, my little golden calf. What a—don't call names! I owe him a grudge for "cold hands," and the other day, when I heard of his being wounded at Shiloh, I could not help laughing a little at Tom B—r's being hurt. What was the use of throwing a nice, big cannon ball, that might have knocked a man down, away on that poor little fellow, when a pea from a popgun would have made the same impression? Not but what he is brave, but little Mr.B—r is so soft.

Then there was that rattle-brain Mr. T——t who, commencing one subject, never ceased speaking until he had touched on all. One evening he came in talking, and never paused even for a reply until he bowed himself out, talking still, when Mr. Bradford, who had been forced to silence as well as the rest, threw himself back with a sigh of relief and exclaimed, "This man talks like a woman!" I thought it the best description of Mr.T—t's conversation I had ever heard. It was all on the surface, no pretensions to anything except to put the greatest possible number of words of no meaning in one sentence, while speaking of the mostb trivial thing. Night or day, Mr. T——t never passed home without crying out to me, "Ces jolis yeux bleus!" and if the parlor were brightly lighted so that all from the street might see us, and be invisible to us themselves, I always nodded my head to the outer darkness and laughed, no matter who was present, though it sometimes created remark. You see, I knew the joke. Coming from a party escorted by Mr. B—r, Miriam by Mr. T——t[1], we had to wait a long time before Rose opened the door, which interval I employed in dancing up and down the gallery—followed by my cavalier—singing,—

"Mes jolis yeux bleus, Bleus comme les cieux, Mes jolis yeux bleus, Ont ravi son ame," etc; which naive remark Mr. B—r, not speaking French, lost entirely, and Mr. T—t endorsed it with his approbation and belief in it, and ever afterwards called me "Ces jolis yeux bleus."

April 19th 1862.

Another date in Hal's short history! I see myself walking home with Mr. McG— just after sundown, meeting Miriam and Dr. Woods at the gate; only that was a Friday instead of a Saturday, as this. From the other side, Mr. Sparks comes up and joins us. We stand talking in the bright moonlight which makes Miriam look white and statue-like. I am holding roses in my hand, in return for which one little pansy has been begged from my garden, and is now figuring as a shirt-stud. I turn to speak to that man of whom I said to Dr. Woods, before I even knew his name,"Who is this man who passes here so constantly? I feel that I shall hate him to my dying day." He told me his name was Sparks a good, harmless fellow, etc. And afterwards, when I did know him, (Dr. Woods) would ask every time we met, "Well! do you hate Sparks yet?" I could not really hate any one in my heart, so I always answered, "He is a good-natured fool, but I will hate him yet." But even now I cannot my only feeling is intense pity for the man who has dealt us so severe a blow; who made my dear father bow his gray head, and shed such bitter tears.

 Roughly translated from the French, "Those cheerful blue eyes". The song which follows translates "Her cheerful blue eyes, as blue as the sky. Her cheerful blue eyes, they have ravished his soul."

The moon is rising higher now, and people are hurrying to the grand Meeting, where the state of the country is to be discussed, and the three young men bow and hurry off, too. Later, at eleven o'clock, Miriam and I are up at Lydia's waiting (until the boat comes) with Miss Comstock who is going away. As usual, I am teasing and romping by turns. Harry suddenly stands in the parlor door, looking very grave, and very quiet. He is holding father's stick in his hand, and says he has come to take us over home. I was laughing still, so I said,"Wait," while I prepared for some last piece of folly, but he smiled for the first time, and throwing his arm around me, said, "Come home, you rogue!" and laughing still, I followed him.

He left us in the hall, saying he must go to Charlie's a moment, but to leave the door open for him. So we went up, and I ran in his room, and lighted his gas for him, as I did every night when we went up together. In a little while I heard him come in and go to his room. I knew nothing then; but next day, going into mother's room, I saw him standing before the glass door of her armoir, looking at a black coat he had on. Involuntarily I cried out, "Oh, don't, Hal!" "Don't what? Isn't it a nice coat?" he asked. "Yes; but it is buttoned up to the throat, and I don't like to see it. It looks—"here I went out as abruptly as I came in; that black coat so tightly buttoned troubled me.

He came to our room after a while and said he was going ten miles out in the country for a few days. I begged him to stay, and reproached him for going away so soon after he went without further explantion.

Walking out to Mr. Davidson's that evening, Lydia and I sat down on a fallen rail beyond the Catholic graveyard, and there she told me what had happened. The night before, sitting on Dr. Wood's gallery, with six or eight others who had been singing, Hal called on Mr. Henderson to sing. He complied by singing one that was not nice.[2] Old Mr. Sparks got up to leave, and Hal said,"I hope we are not disturbing you?" No, he said he was tired and would go home. As soon as he was gone, his son, who I have since heard was under the influence of opium—though Hal always maintained that he was not,—said it was a shame to disturb his poor old father. Hal answered, "You heard what he said. We did not disturb him." "You are a liar!" the other cried. That is a name that none of our family has either merited or borne with; and quick as thought Hal sprang to his feet and struck him across the face with the walking-stick he held. The blow sent the lower part across the balcony in the street, as the spring was loosened by it, while the upper part, to which was fastened the sword—for it was father's sword cane—remained in his hand.

I doubt that he ever before knew the cane could come apart. Certainly he did not perceive it, until the other whined piteously he was taking advantage over an unarmed man; when, cursing him, he (Harry) threw it after the body of the cane, and said, "Now we are equal." The other's answer was to draw a knife,[3] and was about to plunge it into Harry,who disdained to flinch, when Mr. Henderson threw himself on Mr.Sparks and dragged him off.

It was a little while after that Harry came for us. The consequence of this was a challenge from Mr. Sparks in the morning, which was accepted by Harry's friends, who appointed Monday, at Greenwell,to meet. Lydia did not tell me that; she said she thought it had been settled peaceably, so I was not uneasy, and only wanted Harry to come back from Seth David's soon. The possibility of his fighting never occured to me.

Index to Morgan Marriages (Grooms) in Mississippi Before 1932

NOTE: This index is of grooms only. The quality of the microfilm at times is veru poor and the information which was questionable is indicated by "(?)". Information which could not be read at all is indicated by "_____". Not all records contained the same information—many early records do not identify the officiant and some of those which do fail to indicate if a minister or civil official. These names are included as a minister, if his church can be identified, can lead to additional records, and knowing that an officiant was not a minister can prevent what might be a wild-goose chase. There are separate indexes purportedly for white and black marriages, but not all white marriages were identified as white, though none were identified as black. Marriages taken from the black list and either identified as white, or having no designation at all (recall that the quality of the film is inconsistant, and thus some marriages identified as black could appear to have no designation at all) are identified in this list by "@". Black marriages are preceded by "°". The arrangment of the marriages in the original lists is alphabetically by the name of the groom, although some marriages were out-of-sequence, but it is not altogether clear whether there was a particular sequence to those marriages involving grooms with the same given name/initial. In the list which follows, they have been arranged alphabetically by the name of the bride. It is only speculation on my part, but I suspect that many marriages identifed as white which appear in the black index were placed there because the groom's nickname was used. In a vein similar to using the term "boy" to refer to any black male, regardless of age, a black was more likely to be addressed by his "boy" name, e.g., Jimmy, than the adult proper name, such as James. The person(s) assembling these indices may have assumed, according, that any Jimmie was black even when the card was marked "White". There is but another illustration of something which has been repeated stated in Morgan Migrations—the material published in these pages MUST be used as a guide to the actual records and not as a substitute for them.

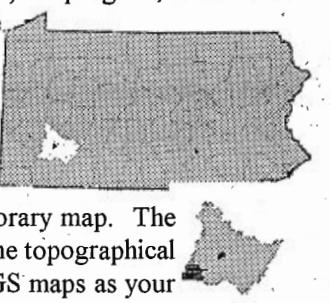
A Case Study in Land Platting: Morgan Deeds in Westmoreland County, PA.

Land platting can be an invaluable for genealogical research yet nany researchers fail to take full advantage of it, either because they are intimidated by the apparent complexity of land-platting, or they feel that looking at land descriptions is pointless because the walnut, hickory or piner trees/posts which most often mark the corners of a track are unlikely to exist 100, 150, even 200 years after the fact.

Addressing the latter point first, it may be true that many items used to mark property lines will not exist today, those lines nevertheless had a vitality beyond the objects initially used to mark them and today may be marked by items which are much more permanent in nature, such as a stone fence or highway. It is certainly easier to establish where a specific tract is located when the bounds included a landmark which is still recognizable today, such as a river, mountain ridge or the like. However, even when the lines of the property did not contain such a landmark or have been obliterated by subdivision or consolidation with a large tract, it is still possible to identify its location, although it typically provokes the first response. There are, however, computer programs which can simplify the platting process. Black Oak Mapper, the program used for the plats in this article, is just one of those programs, and among the least expensive.



When a property description does not incorporate a recognizable landmark, that limitation can be circumvented by platting the adjoining properties and assembling the tracts much as one would assemble a jig-saw puzzle (hopefully one would not be obliged to plat too many tracts). At the point one discovers a recognizable landmark, the next step is to match that landmark to a contemporary map. The most suitable maps, due to the combination of scale, detail and availability are the topographical quadrangles published by the United State Geological Survey. If you use USGS maps as your basis map, your plats must be drawn to a scale of 2.625 inches to a mile.

The following deed abstracts illustrate, in addition to the relationships between various the Morgans who were parties to these deeds, some of the problems typically encountered in platting (and an additional reason for platting other tracts), and the importance of examining all deeds to which an individual was party, as only the last of the four deed included here mentioned the grantor's wife..

Thanks go out to colleague Mary D. Fugate, editor of Fugate Family News, for providing the copies of these deeds.

Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, Deed Book 13
pp. 223-4. 23 November 1818. William Morgan for Natural affection for a son and Consideration of $10 by paid his said son John J. Morgan, part of tract of land containing three hundred and ninety three acres called WALES suitated on Morgan's Mill Run, Rostraver Township, Westmoreland County granted to said William Morgan by patent from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania sixteenth June seventeen hundred and ninety and enrolled in patent Book 16, page 316, beginning at a post then through Wales north twenty degrees west eighteen perches to a Black Walnut, north sixty two degrees east forty perches to a post, north fifteen degrees and a half west ten perches and four tenths to wild cherry, north fifty six degrees and a half east forty four perches, north sixty two degrees east one hundred and sixteen perches to a white oak shrub, and north sixty degrees and a half east sixty seven perches and seven tenths to a post, then by lands of Auza Chapper and residue of land late of Dorsey Penticost south twenty three degrees west one hundred and thirty six perches and five tenths to a post, south twelve degrees west eleven perches and four tenths to a post and south twenty six degrees west six perches and eight tenths to hickory, then by land of Dr.Bela Smith south seventy one degrees west sixty six perches to white oak and north forty four degrees and a half west one hundred and four perches to beginning, containing one hundred and seven acres and forty eight perches.

Witnessed by: Robin Todd; John T. Jones William Morgan
24 November 1818. Before me, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for County of Westmoreland appeared William Morgan who acknowledged the foregoing.... John Wright
As described above, this tract calculates out to 78.029 acres after an additional course of South 23.68° West 73.517 perches is drawn to join the starting and ending lines which should, but do not, meet. Furthermore, this additional course crosses other courses. Changing the sequence of the courses, e.g., starting the description with the next to last course, can sometimes reveal where a single error has been made, but such manipulation either fails to eliminate the crosses of courses or enlarges the acreage substantially beyond that stated in the deed. Accordingly, it would appear that either one (or more) course was misstated in the deed or one (or more) course was omitted from the description. Which can be determined by comparing this description with the subsequent sale of the tract by John J. Morgan or his heirs, or with the descriptions of the other properties mentioned in the deed at the time they were sold. See the note regarding the deed from William Morgan and William Morgan, Junior. No plat was included in the above abstract because of these discrepancies.
p. 224. 23 November 1818. William Morgan to John Bennett, for sum of $266.25 conveyance of part of tract called WALES (see preceeding abstract for provenance of Wales) beginning at post then with land of the heirs of Ebenezer Walker south sixty nine degrees east eighty four perches and two tenths to post, with land of Aniza Chappen south twenty three degrees west twenty two perches to post, through Wales south sixty and three fourths degrees west sixty nine perches and seven thenths to Shrub white oak, by land conveyed to Robert Todd north sixteen degrees and three quarters west seventy six perches to post and north forty five dgrees east seventeen perches and five tenths to beginning, containing twenty six acres and one hundred and one perches.

Witnessed by: Robert Todd; John T. Jones William Morgan
24 November 1818. Before me, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for County of Westmoreland appeared William Morgan who acknowledged the foregoing.... John Wright
This tract was found to contain 26.548 acres after an additional ourse of South 26.33° East .744 perches was included. That additional course is so small that it cannot be seen at the scale used in the above plat and suggests that the discrepancy between this calculation and that in the deed was the result of one or more courses being misstated by a fraction of a degree &/or a fraction of a perch, and the plat used is essentially accurate.
p. 225. 23 November 1818. William Morgan, for Natural affection for a son and Consideration of sum of $10 by paid his said son Morgan Morgan, part of tract called Wales (see first abstract for further description of Wales), beginning at post, then through Wales south forty eight degrees east fifty perches and five tenths to Hickory in line of land conveyed to Robert Todd, south forty three degrees and three quarters west nineteen perches and seven tenths to sugar root, south three degrees east nine perches, south fifteen degrees east ten perches, south sixty degrees east twenty eight perches, south two degrees east seven perches and five tenths, south thirty one degrees east twenty five perches to ironwood root, north forty eight degrees west sixty nine perches to post, south fifty five degrees west one hundred and twenty six perches and eight tenths to post, south three degrees west fifty perches and one tenth to hickory, by land of Doctor Bela Smith north eighty four degrees and a half west thirty nine perches and two tenths to Black oak, north thirty two degrees west thirty seven perches to hickory root, by land of John Wright, Esquire, north thirty degrees and a half east sixty six perches to walnut, south eighty nine degrees and a half east seventy eight perches and eight tenths to post, north twenty seven and a half east forty perches to Beginning, containing Eighty two acres and one quarter

24 November 1818. Before me, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for County of Westmoreland appeared William Morgan who acknowledged the foregoing.... John Wright

As described in the above deed, the acreage turned out to be substantially less than the 82.25 stated in the deed, with an additional course of North 18.09° East 64.375 perches. The eighth through eleventh courses of this tract match the fifth through eighth courses of the following deed except for the ninth course of this deed being North 54° West 126.8 perches while the sixth course in the following dee is North 50° West 126.8. As these course are spelled out rather than given in numerals, it is likely that the ninth course in this deed was mistated and should be 54°, and in calculating the acreage, it was that number which was used. The plat was also begun with the next to last course, which, inspite of retaining the additional course of North 18.09° East 64.374 perches, enlarged the tract to 86.525 acres. It is that rendering which is used above, although it is imprecise, because the true plat would not differ significantly from it, and it illustrates that at least one course was omitted from this description, although the specifics—angle, length and position(s) in the sequence—cannot be determined beyond noting that it (they) could not be within courses eight through eleven.

pp. 225-6. 23 November 1818. William Morgan, for Natural affection for a son and Consideration of sum of $10 by paid his said son William Morgan Junior, part of tract called WALES (see first abstract for further description of Wales), beginning at post, then through Wales north twenty degrees west eighteen perches to Black walnut, north sixty two degrees east forty perches to post, north fifteen degrees and a half west ten perches and five tenths to wild cherry, north fifty six degrees and a half east forty four perchest to post, north twenty eight degrees west twenty eight perches to Ironwood, north forty eight degrees west sixty nine perches to post, south fifty degrees west one hundred and twenty six perches and eight tenths to a post, south three degrees west fifty perches and one tenth to hickory, then by land of Docter Bela Smith south eighty four degrees and a half east one hundred and three perches and eight tenths to beginning, containing Eighty five acres and fifty four perches, with the additional stipulation that the said grantor reserves for his own benefit and that of his wife Britta the entire benefit so long as they both may live and provided said William Morgan Iunior remains unmarried and he resides with his father's family, he shall be entitled to one third of his labors, but if he should marry, he is entitled to two thirds provided he builds a house for his family and supply all stock and farm utensils for the same.

Witnessed by: Robert Todd; John T. Jones William Morgan

24 November 1818. Before me, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for County of Westmoreland appeared William Morgan who acknowledged the foregoing.... John Wright

As previously noted previously, the last four courses of this tract match the eighth through eleventh courses of the preceeding deed except for this sixth course stating the angle to be 50° while the above ninth gives 54°. The plat used above presumes the correct angle to be 54° for the reason already noted. There is a similar discrepancy between the first courses of this tract and the first tract conveyed to John J. Morgan. Using the same logical that reconciled the preceeding discrepancy, it is presumed that this deed stated the course accurately and the course in the first deed was adjusted accordingly. A further comparison of this deed with the first shows identical second courses and the third course also matches the fourth course in the first deed. While this may merely be coincidence, logic dictates that the third course was omitted from this deed, and when it is added, the acreage increased from 83.770 acres to 85.084 acres. While the increase is minor, it does bring the acreage closer to that actually stated in the deed, namely 85.3 acres. This was achieved with the addition of a course North 57.34° West 1.56 perches, so there are apparently additional errors in the description, but given the slightness, it is more probably due to one or more of the angles being mistated by a fraction of a degree, one or more distances being misstated by a fraction of a perch, or a combination of both. The different between the plat displayed above would not, however, be readily discerned about the true plat, i.e., it is essentially accurate.

Recommendations for additional research:

When an attempt is made to link the plats of the four above deeds, one can begin to postuate where any errors speculated in the previous comments were actually located, as shown in illustration #1. In that illustration, plat #1 cuts across plat #3, suggesting that the multiple courses have either been mistated or omitted. Illustration #2 speculates that the last course stated in the first deed was accurate, as were the first five courses, obliging that the sixth course be reoriented from northeast to southeast to avoid any crossing of the subsequent lines with either of the other plats with which it was connected. The remaining courses of the tract are not shown because each further extents the acreage beyond that stated in the deed and/or results in crossing of lines. The broken line at the lower right corner of this illustration, as well as elsewhere in both illustrations represent imprecise courses, all drawn by Black Oak Mapper to "close" the plat. This specific line represents multiple lines which would bow inward, although the exact extant and manner cannot be presently determined with the information available.

At the approximate point in the first deed where there presently is no confirmation of courses in the other deeds; the description refers to tracts belonging to an Auza Chapper and Dorsey Pentecost. Assuming this Auza is the same as Anza Chappen mentioned in the deed to John Bennett, analysis of the deeds for those tracts may help to define further the boundaries of the tract sold to John J. Morgan. Similarly, mention is made of a Dr. Bela Smith. That tract (or tracts?) may be even more significant as Dr. Smith was mentioned in the descriptions of the tracts sold to Morgan Morgan and William Morgan, Junior.

While the deed from William Morgan to John Bennett is the most exact of the four, it does not appear to have any points in common with the other tract, and the total acreage of the four tracts represents less than half of the stated acreage of Wales. Accordingly, William Morgan owned additional land, the descriptions of which might further define the property lines of these tracts, as well as establish how Wales was situated on Morgan's Mill Run. Assuming that the course(s) would be substantial enough, matching the same to the meanders of that stream would precisely locate not only that tract but all others linked to it.

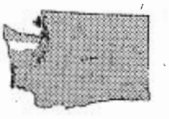
The third tract also has an imprecise line, but from the description, it does not appear that the course is in common with any other Morgan tract unless the land owned by Robert Todd was sold to him by William Morgan. The deed does not explicitly state such, but it is implied. Deeds for the property of John Wright should also serve to define the lines of this tract further.

This article will be continued in a future issue of Morgan Migrations. Normally the conclusion of an article is known to the article, if no one else before the publication of the same even begins, yet where this research will lead remains to be seen, even by this author, a situation much like that faced by every researcher only first beginning to follow up on a lead..

Morgan Biographical Sketches in Washington State

An Illustrated History of the State of Washington, edited by Rev. H. K. Hines, D. D. (Chicago: Lewis Publishing Company, 1893)

p. 916. Henry E. Morgan, Port Townsend, Jefferson County, was born at Groton, Connecticutt on 30 October 1825, the son of Elisha and Caroline, who were both natives of that state. Elisha first engaged in the manufacture of woolen goods, but removing to the Poquonock plains of Connecticutt,[1] bought 500 acres and became a farmer. He served many years in the State legislature & was also clerk of the town where he lived for 30 odd years.[2]

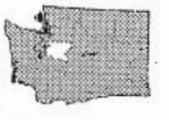


Henry received his education in the schools of Groton. In 1845 at age 20, he apprenticed himself at Meriden Silver Plating Company[3] where he remained until 1849, when in a company of eighty men who purchased the bark[4] Selma,[5] he sailed with mining tools and three years worth of provisions for California, arriving in September at San Francisco, making him one of the original Argonauts.[6] Instead of proceeding to the mines, he joined a company[7] led by Capt.John Van Pelt ferrying passengers to Sacramento on a small schooner until the steamer Senator cut into the business, at which time he signed on to an ocean steamer on which he worked for 2 years. He then plied that same trade locally in the San Francisco area on the waters from 1853 to 1858 when he bought interest in a schooner on which he ran freight to Puget Sound. That area so impressed him that, selling his vessel, he bought a claim on Whidby Island[8] to farm and also trade in farming implements. He came to Port Townsend 1864, taking a business loan to buy land there and in 1866 bought an additional 60 acres, now called Morgan Hill. That property was platted and divided into lots for sale to new residents in 1885, from which Mr. Morgan earned a substanital return on his investment. He was elected in 1863 as a Republican to represent Jefferson County in the state Legislature, and served for 2 terms before voluntarily retiring to return to his business. He was subsequently appointed Inspector of Hulls for Puget Sound District in 1879 and served in that capacity for six years.

Mr. Morgan married Kate A. Burton in 1848 at Meriden, Connecticutt. Mr. & Mrs. Morgan do not have any children of their own, but did adopt a daughter, Kate Harned Morgan, who is now the wife of D. H. Hill.

A Volume of Memoirs and Genealogy of Representative Citizens of the City of Seattle & King County, Washingon (New York & Chicago: Lewis Publishing Co., 1903)

pp. 145-46. Frank V. Morgan, manager and stockholder of Seattle Ice Company, was born at Newton, Massachusetts on 7 April 1867. His Morgan ancestors came from Wales, settling first in Connecticutt, then moving to New Hampshire, where his father Henry B. Morgan was born in 1828. His maternal ancestors, the Averys,[9] can trace their lineage back to the 14th century. Henry B. Morgan married Martha Ann Jones of New Hampshire, who died at age 34, while Henry lived to be 66. They had six children, of whom four are now living



Frank was schooled in Connecticutt before completing his education at Oberlin College in Ohio. Upon graduation he settled at Sacramento where he worked in the ice business 6 years. As there were no viable local plants, he hauled his ice in from Tincker,[10] Colorado, an ingenuity which attracted the attention of the new owners of Seattle Ice Company in 1885 and brought him to this state in the company of his brother. He married Gerrude Holt in 1895 and has a son Percy Avery. Mr. Morgan is a member of the Knights of Pythias, and following in his father's footsteps, is an active Republican, although he was resisted the advise of others that he seek public office.

History of Whatcom County, Volume 2 (Chicago & Seattle: Pioneer Historical Publishing Company, 1926)

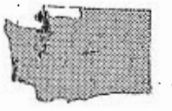
p. 299-300. Henry A. Morgan was born in Kentucky on 16 August 1872, a son of T. P. and Amanda (Brown) Morgan, both natives of Kentucky, where T. P. Morgan was a farmer. Both are now deceased, the father having died in 1895 and his mother in 1898. Mr. & Mrs. Morgan had nine children—W. H. Jordan (half-brother), W. H., Dora, Victoria, Ruth, Lucy, T. J., Henry A. & Ermice.

Henry A. Morgan came to Washington State in 1897 from his native Kenutcky in 1897 and in April of that years, soon after his arrival, enlisted for five months in the Washington State Volunteers. When he was discharged in that fall, he bought 80 acres in Nooksack Township, and as it was almost entirely wooded, he homesteaded an adjoingin 40 acres. He has now cleared 25 acres. He subsequently bought 40 acres in British Columbia to which he moved in 1906 and lived for 8 years before leasing it and returning to Whatcom County. On his return he bought 20 acres in Lawrence Township and 10 acres in Ten Mile Township[11] in 1917, both of which he has only partly cleared and now leases out. Mr. Morgan also buys and sells livestock, being widely regarding as a good judge of animals.



He married Cassie McGillivary in November, 1900. She was born in Stormont County, Ontario, Canada, a daughter of Macolm & Maggie. Cassie was one of nine children: Cassie, Jennie, Mary, Daniel, twins Maggie and Kenneth, Jessie, and twins Laura and Nora. She and Mr. Morgan have no children, but did reared Charlie, born in 1905, and Christine, born in October of 1906, both in Kentucky.[12] Christine is now the wife of Thomas T. Brue of Everson.

1. Anyone unfamiliar with the geography of Connecticutt is left with the impression that this was a significant move; it was not, as Poquonock is a borough of Groton Township in New London County.
2. The orginal artiicle failed to state whether Henry represented Groton or Poquonock in the legislature, and the date of the move to the latter place was not given to provide a basis for determining the same, although the impression given by the subsequent reference to Henry's schooling being at Groton is that it was the former community which Elisha represented in the legislature and served as clerk.
3. Presumably this company was located in the town of that same name in Connecticutt.
4. Bark, also spelled barque, is a synonyu for schooner.
5. It is not clear whether Henry was a partner in this venture, or merely a passenger.
6. Argonaut is the term used to refer to the "Forty-Niners", those individuals who went to California in search of gold, the term alluding to the crew of the mythical Argonaut, which sailed in search of the Goldenn Fleece.
7. Again, it is unclear if Henry was a partner in this venture, although it is inferred from subsequent events, i.e., his ability to purchase his own ship.
8. This island lies at the mouth of Puget Sound and constitutes Island County, an original county of Washington State.
9. There was no further explanation of how he was related to the Averys, particularly in light of his mother's maiden name being given as Jones.
10. I can find no record of a community of this name, which would thus appear to be extinct or known by another name today.
11. These two township were south and southwest of Nooksack, which is itself on the Canadian line.
12. It surely is not a coincidence that Henry adopted two children from his native state, but no explanation was given as to why.

Every periodical has its preferred format for queries, and Morgan Migrations is no different. A query transmission form is provided in every issue, although it is likely that there will either be insufficient space for all the queries one might wish to submit. Please feel free to use additional sheets, or to use a separate sheet if you do not wish to remove the form from your magazine. In either case, you are asked to observe the following guidelines:

- PLEASE use standard letter-size paper (8½x11)
- PLEASE date your queries and include your complete name and address on each sheet
  You CAN submit more than one query at a time and more than one query to a page
- PLEASE include as much information as you have and DO NOT ABBREVIATE–it is far easier to edit your query if the editor is not trying to guess what an abbreviation means or whether you have a specific piece of information.
- PLEASE remind the editor when you have moved if you have recently submitted a query. It is not unusual to receive replies to queries many, many years after they are first published, but many may either be unable or unwilling to search for you if their letter comes back to them "address-see unknown" or "forwarding order expired".
- PLEASE send them to the correct address. The "Forwarding" order for mail addressed to 6419 has long expired, but mail regularly arrives not only with the old address, but addressed to our neighbors. There is no way of being certain how much mail fails to reach or is dealyed in reaching Morgan Migrations because the old building number was used.

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

Thank you for your note of September 26, 1982. I am interested in the work you are doing. I grew up in Jones County, Miss., and am interested in what went on in that general area.

The David Delk you referred to was my great grandfather. He was born about 1837 to Elisha Delk in Wilkinson County, Georgia. His mother, Lucretia, whose maiden name has not come to me, was apparently the third (or more) wife of Elisha. Family legend has it that there was also a daughter born to that marriage, but she was accidentally burned to death as an infant.

Lucretia, widowed about November, 1837, was married July 17, 1838, to Alvarene Martin. I cannot find this couple in any 1840 Census Index. There is evidence they lived in Northwest Florida prior to 1850 when they were in Early County, GA. In the general migration Westward, they were in the 1860 Perry County Census, apparently close to Sidney Hinton where David is listed. He was married to Mahalia Brown about 1861 and lived the remainder of his life in the Covington-Jones County area. Please see the paper dated June 13, 1982, for additional details.

My mother was a Morgan, and I am particularly interested in her grandfather, William Morgan. Please see enclosed "Search for Grandpa Morgan's Family - Ancestors", for what I know and for a statement of my problem, which is essentially that if I can prove that our William Morgan is the same person shown as a child of Mary and William Morgan in the Louisiana Succession papers of Mary Morgan, then I can prove an interesting genealogy. The records show that the senior William Morgan's ancestors go back to England.

My father's mother's mother, was related to a Judge Hayles who lived in Wayne, Perry or Green Counties. I am interested in learning more about him, as well as the Sheppards (spelling variable).

Now, I have said lots about my own problems, in the hope you may help me, so I will answer your question.

When I first started this genealogical work, I met Mary Fowler of Atlanta, who has done considerable work on the Martin family, the descendants of Alvarene Martin. Her address is shown in a letter included in my Delk article enclosed. Her husband, Glenn Fowler, is a direct descendant of Alvarene Martin, and I am sure she can help you. But I would appreciate a list of Martins you have. She has given me some information on the Martins, but it is at home and I am at my office.

I am curious as to who is your correspondent who told you about me.

My plans are to go to Virginia and North Carolina this Sunday for research on the Delks during that week.

Are you familiar with the publications of names of persons lying in cemeteries in Green, Perry and Wayne counties?

Sincerely yours,

V. Randolph Delk

Dear Kinfolk,

Hope that each of you have been well. We have the wedding behind us now - a relief and a let-down rolled into one big ball! In any case, we have a new son for our family and we share in our daughter's happiness.

A friend was kind enough to furnish me with a telephone directory for Bastrop, LA. and I was able to locate descendants of RACHEL AVERA MORGAN TRAVIS. I had known that the family moved to that area years ago, but had no idea how to get in touch with them. If anyone can add any more info to what I have for this family, please let me hear from you. Many thanks to Leroy Travis for contacting me and sharing his info.

RACHEL AVERA & AUSTIN B. TRAVIS FAMILY:

Dear Kinfolk,

I hope that the holiday season and new year proved to be wonderful for you and yours. My family had a great holiday. Sorry the newsletter is so late getting out, but I've been slowed up a bit lately. I spent several days in the hospital recently. I was admitted with what appeared to be all the classic symptoms of a heart attack. Final diagnosis ended up being angina attack. In any case, I was told that I need to slow down and quit trying to do so much so I spent a week off from work doing not much of anything. Don't think that I am cut out to be a couch potato!!

Joseph Watts Morgan and Arthur Albert Morgan and his wife, Clyde Groves Morgan, are all buried at Evergreen Cemetery in Gulfport, MS. That only leaves me with finding burial places for James Chiles and Gaines Ira Morgan, children of William Gaines and Sarah Lott Watts Morgan. Let me hear from you if you know the names of the cemeteries of where these two sons are buried.

Willaim Gaines Morgan served with the Confederate States of America in Co. H, 27th MS Infantry (Jasper Blues) as a private. He was enlisted on May 1, 1862 by Captain Goodwin Nixon. I located records showing he only served for 2 months so I am curious about that and would like to know why he only served such a short time.

Congratulations to Edna Carpenter upon the arrival December 23 of another great-granddaughter, Elizabeth Gray Henry. Remember to let me hear from you with any news concerning arrivals to the family (births, marriages) or departures (deaths, divorces). Thanks!!

I need to get in contact with anyone who knows the family history of Martha Lovenia Carpenter Bristow. I need addresses so that I can write and obtain info.

Hopefully, I will have more info by the next newsletter. Take care and God Bless!!

J.B. Morgan family gathers for surprise party

GAUTIER — A surprise birthday celebration was Dec. 29, 1991, honoring Julius Buchanan Morgan Sr. on the observance of his 92nd birthday.

The celebration was in the Gautier home of his granddaughter, Carol Dunaway. Dawn Dunaway of Long Beach, great-granddaughter, co-hosted the event.

Mr. Morgan is the father of four children, seven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Children attending were Jewel Stepp of New Johnsonville, Tenn.; Marie Loper and husband Henry of Pascagoula; and J.B. Morgan Jr. and wife Sandra of Gautier.

Ruth Matthews called from her home in Sanford, N.C., earlier in the day to wish her father a happy birthday.

Grandchildren attending were Henry Loper Jr. and wife Cathy of Gautier; Warren Loper and wife Carolyn of Moss Point; Melissa Hults and husband Alan of Gautier; J.B. "Jay" Morgan III and wife Stephanie from Aspen, Colo.; and Carol Dunaway.

Great-grandchildren attending were Dawn Dunaway of Long Beach; Donovan Dunaway of Gautier; DeeDee Loper Shivers of Gulfport; Morgan Loper of Pulaski, Tenn.; and David Hults of Gautier.

Attending their uncle's celebration from Petal, Miss., were Dorthea Morgan, Ada Morgan McCardle, Ida Faye McCardle and Erman "Jim" McCardle, plus Sara Morgan from Illinois.

Others guests were Vinson and Audrey Breland of Pascagoula and Scott Toulme of Gautier.

Dear Kinfolk,

Looks like Christmas is just around the corner. Isn't that hard to believe?

Hope all of you had an enjoyable Thanksgiving holiday. We were not able to get to Runnelstown to see the syrup making - Tommy had to work and I had the flu. We had looked forward to going but maybe can make it next year.

GREAT NEWS!! I located where Arthur Albert Morgan and his brother, Joseph Watts Morgan are buried. Both are buried in the Evergreen Cemetery in Gulfport, MS. This means that I now have located where all the children of William Gaines Morgan and Sarah Lott Watts Morgan are buried except for James Chiles Morgan. I still have not gotten any information on him or his family but believe that they will be found in Louisiana. Let me hear from you if you can help on this.

Very little work got done this past month on the family tree. Bad time of the year for me at work and not enough hours in the day!!

I will be sending bi-monthly newsletters from now on, so the next newsletter will be February.

My family and I wish each and every one of you a Merry Christmas and a Joyous New Year. Take care and remember to keep the spirit of Christmas alive. God Bless!!

Dear Kinfolk,

The clean-up for the Morgan Cemetery in Runnelstown was a great success. The weather cooperated this time and we were able to completely clean the cemetery. I would like to recognize our kinfolk who helped make this possible:

Ada McCardle, Ida Faye McCardle, John P. Carpenter, Evelyn Carpenter, Rayford Morgan, John C. Broach, Sr., John C. Broach, Jr., Norma Broach, Bryan Hubbard, Joe P. Carpenter II, Russell Barnett, Tommy Dunaway and myself.

Many thanks to each of them for their hard work!

I've been fortunate enough to receive numerous info on the Albert Watts Morgan line. Some of this info came from Charlene Ray, great-granddaughter of Albert. Thanks, Charlene, for sharing info.

Due to the rising cost of postage, stationary, etc., I find it necessary to have bi-monthly newsletters, which will start in January. I regret having to do this, but feel that I must at this time. Please remember to let me know of any births, marriages, or deaths that you may know of in our family. This is very important to keep our family history updated.

Tommy and I were delighted to have Dorothy and Ethel Ashe for a visit in our home while they were back in Mississippi and Louisiana visiting their kin last month.

Would like to hear from anyone who knows where and when Arthur Albert Morgan and Joseph Watts Morgan died and where they are buried. Charlene Ray informed me that she thinks Arthur is buried in Evergreen Cemetery in Gulfport. Let me know if you have info on this.

Hope all of you enjoy your Thanksgiving Holiday. We hope to visit Ada the day before Thanksgiving and see the syrup making. Take care and God Bless!

Mack Morgan: They threw away the mold when they made

By DON BROADUS

Trying to write a story about Mack Morgan is like trying to catch a leprechaun.

You might write about where he's been and what he's done, but Morgan is too interested in other people and his surroundings to think of himself, much less talk of himself.

I went to the 85-year-old Pascagoula native's home on School Avenue this week and found him atop of his house.

"I got to get this roof fixed before I go to heaven," Morgan said. "I could never explain to St. Peter why I left a widow with a leaky roof."

Morgan bounced down the ladder like a man half his age, hopped a fence which separates the backyard from the front and extended a firm handshake.

"Well kiddo, what can I do for you," he said.

"I would like to write a story about your life," I said.

"That won't take long," he said. "Let's go sit on the veranda. It's cooler there."

WE SEATED ourselves on a comfortable sofa on the heavily shaded porch. The head of Communy Bayou was a few feet to the left.

"Well kid, I was born on Morgan's Lane on Jan. 1, 1889. They forgot to drown me and I'm still here.

"If you want to know the God's truth, if there's ever been a guy not worth a damn, it's me.

"I've been dodging the devil and Roy O'Bryant (local undertaker) for years. Those two rascals are right on my heels, but it's been a dead heat so far."

With that, Morgan concluded the story of his life and leaned back as if expecting me to get up and leave.

"Didn't you used to teach school?" I asked.

"Well yes, but if I had it to do over, I'd never set foot in a school as a student or teacher," he said. Then with a twinkle

"That used to be just a trail and I used it when I played hooky from school. I had to dodge a lot of snakes but I was a lot more afraid of old Johnny Morgan (his father). If he'd caught me there would have been hell to pay to the captain."

Morgan curses like a sailor. He never went to sea for any length of time, but he has a good background in seamanship.

When he lets go with a long, blue streak, it sounds more like poetry than profanity.

Morgan's grandfather brought his two sailing ships from Staten Island, N. Y., to Pascagoula long before the Civil War and engaged in the lumber trade.

HIS FATHER SAILED the seas for several years before coming ashore and setting up a livery stable and undertaking business at the corner of Delmas Avenue and Frederic Street.

Morgan worked in his father's business, hauling lumber from the mill to ships and at other jobs.

"I've shoveled more horse manure than any other man in Mississippi," Morgan said of his days in the livery stable. "Everyone needs some claim to fame and that's mine."

Morgan's father also sold coal, coal oil and a little gasoline. He was the first Standard Oil dealer in the area.

"He got mad at old John Rock and switched to another company," Morgan said of the Standard Oil dealership.

Morgan recalled the days of yellow fever when his father was kept busy day and night burying the dead. Dr. William Kell, the town's doctor, also kept busy.

Morgan recalled the better times when he hunted in the area where Singing River Hospital is located, cut hay along what is now River Road and caught fish anywhere he dropped a line into the water.

Every household had a cow, a flock of chickens and a garden, he said.

Morgan followed the lumber camps for awhile before deciding to attend college and Southeastern Louisiana, where he received his degree.

"Everytime they'd kick me out of one school, I'd enroll in another," he said.

Morgan took his first teaching job in Pascagoula in 1912 and used his first paycheck, 62 years ago, to join the Masonic Lodge.

HE SPENT 43 years in the classroom, as principal and superintendent of Pascagoula schools and as Jackson County superintendent of education from which he retired in 1956.

Morgan believes in the paddle as an aid to education and remembers cutting switches from trees he helped plant at the Jackson County Welfare Department.

"I never had to whip a boy but once," he said. Then he remembered Tom Kell.

"He was bigger than I was and fought back for awhile until we reached an understanding."

Asked how his colorful language fit into a school teacher's role, Morgan said:

"I never made a slip. In fact, I used to be sorta respectable but I got over that.

"I even taught Sunday School for a while, but don't tell anyone that. They'd never believe you. All the preachers gave up on me years ago."

While teaching at Pascagoula, Morgan organized the school's first football and basketball teams. Previously baseball was the only sport and it was played in the fall, spring and summer.

Members of the first football team (1919) included Hubert Grant, Mike Pol, Monty Richards, Fritz Brash and Glasner Cowan. Morgan described Grant as "the best high center I've ever seen."

Walter Pelham was captain of the school's first basketball team.

The football uniform was a heavy undershirt and there were no pads or helmets.

"I did have the cobbler nail cleats on their shoes," Morgan said. "It was fair

When Morgan was county superintendent of education a book salesman with whom he had placed a large order sent him money in an unmarked envelope as a gift.

"Anyone with sense of a monkey knew that money came right out of the taxpayers' pockets," Morgan said. "I sent the money back and never placed another order with him."

"If I'd taken that money, old Johnny Morgan would have had a duck fit right there in the grave yard. He was as mean as the devil but straight as a board."

Morgan feels the same today about gifts to politicians.

"I got no use for the Democrats and very little use for the Republicans," he said.

"I WOULD LIKE TO preach a sermon about that milk money they're passing around. It's just like those books. There are families which can't afford to buy milk for their babies. I'd rather see the babies have it than the politicians."

After retiring as an educator, Morgan became Jackson County's first zoning officer and worked at that job for 15 years before retiring for the second time in 1973."

"I worked 15 years past the mandatory retirement age but no one had sense enough to know it and that suited me fine," he said.

Morgan has four children and can't help letting a little pride creep into his voice when he talks about them.

"None of them's worth a damn, but they all married well," he said. "I haven't had to shoot one of them yet."

He describes his wife as a "long-suffering, kind hearted woman who feels sorry for weak-minded folks."

She describes him as "one of a kind. They threw away the mold when they made him."

The description fits no one better than Marshall McLellan Morgan, known bet-

Dear Kinfolk,

Some progress has been made in the past month on locating info on our kinfolk. This month I have been working on the descendants of Albert Watts Morgan. I am including an information sheet on what I have on Albert with this month's newsletter. If you can add to any of the information, please call or write me. I am especially looking for the following info:

1. Samanatha Morgan Edwards - names of children and their families.

2. Eran Morgan Hinton - updated info on her children - who they married, where buried, etc.

3. Elizabeth "Betty" Morgan Dunnam - I only have the name of one child for Betty (Vardaman). Would like to locate names of other children, if any.

I have found that if I put in writing what info I am needing, kinfolk tend to put their heads together and remember certain names, dates, events, etc. Hope that this will jog the memory of some of you regarding Albert and his family.

It was with great distress that I saw that the Morgan Cemetery had become a "jungle" again. Poison MUST be put out to kill off the weeks in order to be able to maintain the cemetery. PLEASE, let's try to set up a date to get together and get this job done properly!! Write or call if you can help with this or contact Ada McCardle in Petal.

My best wishes go to Evelyn Carpenter for a full and speedy recovery from her recent knee surgery. This is a dear lady that has been most helpful with my research.

If you know anyone in the family, or with knowledge about the family, who would like to correspond and share info on our family, send their name and address and I will be happy to put them on my mailing list.

Hope everyone is enjoying their summer - HOT as it is - and have had the opportunity to visit with their kinfolk. Take care and God Bless.

Dear Kinfolk,

Summer has almost come to an end and i'm asking myself, "Where did the time go"? Hope each of you were able to do some things that you wanted to do this summer.

I would appreciate hearing from anyone with info on John Davis Morgan, son of William Gaines Morgan. He was born 11-1-1855. The following is info I need:

1. Melvin M., born 7-9-1886: Whom did he marry and what are his children's names? Melvin died 8-6-1961 and is buried in Glendale Cemetery in Petal.

2. Chester, born 3-24-1884: Married Blanche _____ I know of one son, Chester Jr., born 8-17-1918; married Francis Davis. Would like to know names of other children.

3. Della, born August 1881: Did she ever marry and have a family? When did she die?

4. Ora, born December 1888: Whom did he marry and what are the names of his children?

John and his first wife, Alia, are buried in Glendale Cemetery with their children, Melvin, Rachel and Willam Baxter. I believe that there were two other sons in addition to the ones listed above that John and Alia had but I need to confirm their names. John married Elizabeth Geddie in 1916. Let me hear from you if you can help with this!

Thanks to those of you who have sent your family info in the last month. I'm really moving along on getting everything put together.

Hope everyone has a great Labor Day weekend. Take care and God Bless! Carol

Dear Kinfolk,

The weather has been great here the last two weeks, which has prompted me to try and organize another clean-up day at the Morgan Cemetery in Runnelstown. Hopefully, the weather will continue to be as good and all the work can be done in a few hours. Anyone wishing to lend a hand should meet at the cemetery at 9:30 in the morning on Saturday the 12th. That is probably the earliest that I would be able to arrive there. Items that will be needed for the clean-up are: rakes, hoes, chain saws, shovels and your own work gloves.

For those of you who may not know who is buried in the Morgan Cemetery, the following graves are there:

1. Sarah Lott Watts Morgan
2. William Benjamin Morgan (son of Sarah)
3. Albert Watts Morgan (son of Sarah)
4. Charity Grantham Morgan (wife of Albert)
5. S. Alice Coleman Morgan (1st wife of Daniel Gaines)
6. R. N. Jones (1st husband of Ida Odelia Morgan Jones Carpenter)
7. Culin Jones (father of R. N. Jones)
8. Infants sons of H. D. and L. M. Barnes (I haven't made any family connection for them yet)
9. Infant daughter of W. A. and C. E. Brogdon (I haven't made any family connection for her yet)
10. David, son of J. W. and E. E. Crenshaw (I haven't made any family connection for him yet)
11. Edwards (Tombstone is small with only Edwards written on it. I do not know who this is)

The following people are also known to have been buried there, but their graves can no longer be found:

1. Emma Morgan Clanton (daughter of Sarah and buried at the front of the cemetery to the north end)
2. Chiles Lestor Morgan (grandson of Sarah)
3. Caroline Elizabeth Morgan (daughter of Sarah)
4. Lucinda (daughter of Sarah)

Sarah was buried by her two daughters, Caroline and Lucinda, according to what I've determined from my grandfather, who was a grandson of Sarah. Those graves would have to be to the north of the cemetery as it exists today, which would mean that they would be on the Carter property. Their headstones were probably wooden and long since destroyed.

I have not received information that I requested on Mahlon Morgan from the South Carolina Archives yet. They certainly are slow about honoring their requests, which puts me at a standstill on the Mahlon line.

Hope to see some of you on the 12th. If you are unable to help with the clean-up, come and visit with us anyway. I'll be bringing a picnic lunch for my family. Some of you may wish to do the same. See you then. Take care and God Bless!

Dear Morgan Kin,

Since I have been receiving so many letters asking about how my research is progressing, I decided to send out a little "update" of my work.

I have been in contact with the Carpenter family here in Jackson County and they are busy working on getting together their Morgan/Carpenter information. You will remember that William Gaines Morgan and Sarah L. Morgan had a daughter, Ida Odelia, that married John Carpenter. The Carpenters are a large family and they are scattered in several counties in MS. Most of the Morgan/Carpenter line will be complete when I receive the info from the Jackson County line.

Branching out a little further, I received a phone call last week from Clayton Morgan in Stillwater, OK. He is the grandson of Albert Watts Morgan and is sending along some info on that line. I'm so excited to be hearing from all the family and I'm looking forward to learning their family knowledge.

For those of you who do not know, a clean-up project on the Morgan Cemetery in Runnelstown is under way. Ada and Ida Fay McCardle, my husband and I cleared most of the trees, etc. several weeks ago. The weather has not been cooperating lately and the final clean-up has been delayed. Hopefully, it won't be too long before this project can be completed. We also have talked of wanting to have a wooden sign made and erected at the front of the cemetery once the clean-up has been completed. Would like to hear from any of you who would be willing to contribute to the cost of having a sign made and erected.

I am still needing information on William Benjamin, son of William Gaines. Would appreciate hearing from any of you if you can offer any info on him. I especially need to know the names of his children and info on them. William Benjamin died in 1898 and is buried in the Morgan Runnelstown Cemetery.

James Chiles, another son of William G. is the other son that I do not have info on. I know that he moved to LA and is buried there. If any of you know anything about him or his family, or if you could put me in contact with someone who would have info, please let me hear from you.

I will be going to VA the week of the 20th and hope to stop off in Columbia, SC at the archives to do a little "digging" on Friday or Saturday of that week.

I plan to periodically send out "updates" to keep you informed of what I have found and what I need. Thanks to those of you who have been so gracious and helpful with sending info. God bless you all.

Dear Kinfolk,

Since the mailing of my first newsletter, I have not been able to do much research, due mostly to my work schedule.

I had an enjoyable trip to Virginia and Charleston last month and was able to meet my cousins, Dorothy and Ethel Ashe. Tommy and I spent the night with them in their home in Augusta and truly appreciated their hospitality.

Correspondence has been received from several sources recently concerning info on Morgan that lived in the Jones County area. This info was happily received, since it has helped tie in some of the family that could not be located in Perry County.

News concerning the Morgan Cemetery in Runnelstown: District Attorney, Mile Moore, and Perry County District Attorney, Mr. White, have been contacted concerning the cemetery property and its boundary lines. They've suggested that the family hire a surveyor and have the cemetery marked off according to the deed that is recorded at the courthouse, which states that the cemetery is one acre. They have advised that the present property owners cannot by law do anything to prevent the family from restoring the cemetery to its true and correct size. Ada McCardle is checking into having a surveyor hired and what the cost would be. Will keep you posted on any news.

Would like to hear from anyone who would be willing to help get a sign made and erected at the Morgan Cemetery. Some money has already been contributed from individuals for this purpose. I'm checking with local signmakers here to get an estimate from the cost of the sign alone. I think the family should get together and put it up. Any suggestions or contributions would be appreciated.

If you have not yet completed your family info and returned to me, please do so soon. Also, if you can help furnish info on other family members, please write me a note. You would be surprised at what you might remember concerning your aunts, uncles, cousins, etc.

Congratulations to Dorothy Ashe on her retirement! She hopes to have time now to work on the family also. Happy hunting, Dorothy!!

I'm still trying to locate info on James Chiles Morgan and Eran Morgan, children of William Gaines and Sarah Lott Watts Morgan. HELP!!

Thanks to everyone for sharing information. Let me hear from you if you know have info to share. Take care and God Bless.

Dear Morgan Kin,

Since I have been receiving so many letters asking about how my research is progressing, I decided to send out a little "update" of my work.

I have been in contact with the Carpenter family here in Jackson County and they are busy working on getting together their Morgan/Carpenter information. You will remember that William Gaines and Sarah L. Morgan had a daughter, Ida Odelia, that married John Carpenter. The Carpenters are a large family and they are scattered in several counties in MS. Most of the Morgan/Carpenter line will be complete when I receive the info from the Jackson County line.

Branching out a little further, I received a phone call yesterday from Clayton Morgan in Stillwater, OK. He is the grandson of Albert Watts Morgan and is sending along some needed info on that line. I'm so excited to be hearing from all the family and I'm looking forward to learning their family knowledge.

For those of you who do not know, a clean project on the Morgan Cemetery in Runnelstown is under way. Ada and Ida Fay McCardle, my husband and I cleared most of the trees, etc. several weeks ago. The weather has not been cooperating lately and the final clean-up has been delayed. Hopefully it won't be too long before this project can be completed. We also have talked of wanting to have a wooden sign made and erected at the front of the cemetery once the clean-up has been completed. Would like to hear from any of you who would be willing to contribute to the cost of having a sign made and erected.

I am still needing information on William Benjamin, son of William Gaines and Sarah L. Would appreciate hearing from any of you if you can offer any info on him. I especially need to know the names of his children and info on them. William Benjamin died in 1898 and is buried in the Morgan Runnelstown Cemetery.

James Chiles, another son of William G. and Sarah, is the other son that I do not have info on. I know that he moved to LA and is buried there. If any of you know anything about him or his family, or if you could put me in contact with someone who would have info, please let me hear from you.

I plan to periodically send out "updates" to keep you informed of what I have found and what I need. Thanks to those of you who have been so gracious and helpful with sending info.

God bless each of you,

Carol

MORGAN NEWS

August 1, 1992

Dear Kinfolk,

Hope that all of you have been enjoying your summer. Our family has tried to stay out of the heat - a not too easy task lately!

Sympathy goes to Dorothy Morgan for the recent loss of her mother, Mrs. Lola McLemore.

Please remember to keep me informed of any deaths, marriages, births, or divorces that occur. It is very important for me to keep the individual family records updated and I cannot possibly do that without your help.

I have been working for the following family lines and need info on them. Please send what info you have available.

1. Aquilla Morgan line:
   Clayton Morgan, Kenneth , and Arthur:
   - need names for all children, when born/died; dates of marriages for said children; names of children's spouses and their dates of birth (if any are deceased also dates of death and where buried). Please continue down line with the same info for any grandchildren that may have married.
2. Daniel Gaines Morgan line (son of Albert Watts Morgan):
   Alfred Watts - when did he die/where buried? Name of wife/date of her birth/death? Names of any children and their info?
   Henry Jackson - Name of his spouse; her date of birth/death (place of burial); names for any children and their info.

I have the following as children of Albert Daniel and do not know anything else concerning these children: Christine, Daniel Jr., Matt, and Billy. Would like to hear from anyone who has a more complete record on Daniel's family. Any information on the above mentioned families would be appreciated.

I have only heard from one or two of you concerning the Morgan Cemetery in Runnelstown. If any of you are willing to help clean up the cemetery again, please let me hear from you. I would like to try and get something organized for sometime in September. Also, if anyone wishes to contribute towards the price of having the sign made and possibility a new fence, please send a check and notate the intent. I have $75 contributed so far for the sign, which is less than half of the cheapest estimate that I have gotten.

Edna Carpenter informed me that the Carpenter reunion was nice. I really would have liked to attend but previous obligations prevented that. Perhaps I will be able to go next year and meet more of the Carpenter family. I have appreciated so much all the help that they have given on the Morgan-Carpenter family line.

Tommy and I enjoyed our overnight visit at Ethel and Dorothy Ashe's home in Augusta last month. As always, we enjoyed our time spent with them.

Enjoy the remainder of your summer and try to stay cool. Please let me hear from you with any family news. Take care and God Bless...

The 12th voyage of the Charles W. Morgan: 13 July 1881 - 18 June 1886

Original courtesy of the National Archives Collection: from a copy in the G. W. Blunt White Library, Mystic Seaport Museum, Inc.

Here is a summary of the questions and answers in "Exploring the Charles W. Morgan"

1. What made this ship different from other kinds of ships?
   Whaling ships had many special features: crosstrees on the mast to watch for whales, whaleboats to catch whales, a cutting stage to remove the whale's blubber, and tryworks to boil blubber.
2. What was life like on board?
   Whalemen were away from home for years at a time, and life could be boring. Food often went bad, and work could be dangerous. They were eager to get news from the rest of the world whenever they met other whalers.
3. Where did this ship go?
   The Charles W. Morgan worked in the Atlantic, Pacific, and Indian Oceans. She also whaled in the Sea of Japan and stopped in ports throughout the world.
4. How did they find their way at sea?
   Navigators used the positions of the heavenly bodies, together with tables and knowledge of the ship's direction, to tell where they were.
5. Who lived aboard this ship?
   The Morgan's crew came from the Azores, Cape Verde Islands, the South Pacific, and from many other places around the world.

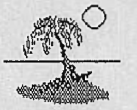
MORGAN NEWS



May 6, 1992

Dear Kinfolk,

Wow - its's hard to believe that spring has sprung and summer is almost here! Where has the time gone?!?

We were all saddened by the death of our friend and loved one, Evelyn Carpenter. Although I had only known Evelyn for two years, it seemed that I had always known her. She was always there to help me sort out some of the family history and give me leads and directions to go in. I will truly miss my friend, as I know we all will.

Dear ones, I must ask for your help again with the cemetery. We cleaned the cemetery again on April 25th. I think if we had waited another week that the task would have been overwhelming again. I hate to think that all the hard work that so many of the family did back in October on the cleanup has been for naught. I am asking for volunteers to help keep the cemetery mowed through these growing months. It will be almost an impossible task for Tommy and I to continue coming up every two weeks to do the job. I certainly don't mind the hard work and Tommy has been such a support to me in this matter, but we do need a little reprieve. If any of you are willing or able to donate an hour of your time once a month to mow the cemetery, please call or write me so that we can get a volunteer roster going. Thanks!

Thanks to Alma Lee Havard for sending copies of old newspaper clippings regarding our family members. Please remember to send me any copies of old family pictures or news items that you may have regarding our family. Those are real treasures and I will have a section in the book on such memorabilia.

Enclosed is a copy of the deed giving the description of our Morgan Cemetery. Please notice the size stated in this deed. Those of you who have worked on the cemetery and are familiar with it will, no doubt, realize that the size of the present day cemetery is nowhere close to the stated size in the deed. We are in the process of checking on prices for a fence, but first we must determine what the family wishes to do concerning the "adjusted" size our cemetery. We need to hear from as many family members as possible to help decide what the family would like to do concerning this matter. Then we can obtain a price on a fence according to the true and correct size stated in the deed or the present size that was fenced in by the Carter family. I urgently need to hear from all the family on this.

MORGAN NEWS

I only recently learned of the automobile accident that Jim McCardle was involved in last month. Our well wishes are sent his way for a full and speedy recovery.

My family and I will be leaving on May 11th for a trip to the Bahamas. Dawn graduates from USM School of Nursing on the 8th and our 25th wedding anniversary is July 2, so we're making this one big celebration. It's been eight years since our entire family has been able to go on a vacation together and we all really looking forward to the fun and sun.

Remember to keep me informed of any changes in family status (births, marriages, deaths, divorces, etc). And it's always good to hear from you anytime with your family news!

Take care and God Bless!

. . . Kim Felty

Former Countian's Daughter Chosen Arizona Junior Miss

Kimberly "Kim" Felty, 17-year-old daughter of Elouise and Johnny Felty, of Tempe, Arizona, was chosen 1984 Arizona Junior Miss March 17 at Mesa, Arizona's Dobson High School. She was among 14 contestants trying for the title.

In addition to the $1,000 Arizona Junior Miss scholarship at the State Pageant, Felty's piano solo won her the $300 creative and performing arts scholarship award from Hershey Chocolate Company. She also collected $300 scholarships each from Kraft and Revlon companies, national Junior Miss sponsors, in special contests.

Felty will represent Arizona in the America's Junior Miss Pageant in Mobile, Ala. in late June. More than $100,000 in scholarships will be awarded there.

The 5-foot-6, brown-eyed, brown-tressed teenager won $650 in cash scholarships in the Tempe Junior Miss Pageant earlier this year. She has also been named winner of a Tempe Diablos' $1,000 ASU scholarship and is an ASU Medallion of Merit winner, entitling her to a tuition waiver at the university.

A senior at Corona del Sol High School in Tempe, Felty is the granddaughter of Mrs. Audry Mae Morgan of Agricola and the late Sidney Morgan. Her mother is the former Elouise Morgan of Agricola. otic man, as has been Mr. Dulles and Mr. Smith, but all of Arthur's work for Naval aviation, all of Foster Dulles' work in the State Department, all of Mr. Smith's excessive contributions to warfare, journalism, bullfighting, poetry and literature, have not amounted to the sum of their contribution in this cancer thing.

The lurking beast that only needs the correct tracking has been brought out into the open, to where cancerous illnesses can be covered by news services, and not covered up by the weaseling "long illness" or "lingering illness."

Maybe this is what we need now to get this government of ours to spend as much dough on cancer research as they spend on rockets, as they spend on thieving politicians and ungrateful, hateful strangers in foreign lands. The American Cancer Society has been great, but private money can't carry the load alone.

All cancer needs to remove it as a menace is enough money and men to prowl around the laboratories until one day a solution as simple as aspirin will pop up. I don't supose that Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace, in whose clinic at Albuquerque the human candidates for the space shot were recently examined, will mind if I recall a long-ago conversation. "All we need," Randy said, "is enough money and enough men." This has been repeated to me by every sincere research physician I know. Enough money. Enough

Tiger Tales

The Class Day program of the 1959 senior class began Friday morning with a welcome to the student body from Pat Watts president of the class.

Sylvia Westfaul gave the class history and Trijetta Gibson and Adell Griffin played a piano duo of "Blue Moon."

Carson Avent and a few honor graduates had a word of "wisdom" to leave to the under classmen and Sue Broom read the class poem.

The girls' ensemble sang "Side by Side" and Victor Shirley started the class will and quite a few others added to the will. Vernon Hunnings presented their gift to the school through Mr. Bullock and Glen Taylor sang a few ballads, one of which was written especially for Miss Berryhill.

Jimmy Davis, vice president, presented the key of wisdom to Fonda Harwell, president of the junior class and Emma Lou Redmond, the class "grumbler," sounded off on why she was so unhappy in school.

The "Four Fiddalls" sang then the seniors sang their farewell song and marched out while the juniors sang their farewell song to the seniors.

Immediately following the program, the juniors had a class meeting and elected officers for next year. They are Graham Nelson, president; John D. Jones, vice president; Geraldine Adkison, secretary-treasurer; Elaine Restucher, reporter, and Charlotte McClary and Billy Hardin, representatives to the student council.

Following the junior meeting the sophomores elected new officers. They are Bill Dodge, president; Charles Rockwell, vice president; Dwala Hand, secretary-treasurer; Wilma Nell Harris, reporter, and Bill Dodge and Elizabeth Watkins, representatives to the student council.

The freshmen and eighth graders plan to have their class meetings Monday.

Dunaway-Wilson

GAUTIER — Dawn Marie Dunaway of Gautier and David James Wilson of Biloxi were married April 30, 1994, at First Baptist Church, Gautier. The Rev. Michael Ward officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry (Carol Loper) Dunaway of Gautier. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas (Shirley) Wilson of St. Martin.

She wore a designer candlelight silk shantung gown featuring a sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice embellished with seed pearls and iridescent sequins over Alencon lace. The short puffed sleeves repeated the beaded lace and iridescents and ended with a butterfly bow. The lace motif was repeated on the back of the bodice and featured a large butterfly bow at the dropped waist. Alencon lace beaded with pearls and iridescent sequins bordered the full skirt and cathedral train. She designed and made her fingertip veil of illusion which was held in place by a crown of Alencon lace with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her jewelry consisted of pearl and iridescent earrings, a gift from her mother, and a pearl bracelet, a gift from her maternal grandmother. She carried a Southern bouquet of silk magnolias, ivory roses, dogwood blossoms and fern. In the bouquet was a handkerchief carried by the bride's great-grandmother and the bride's mother on their wedding days.

Serving as matron of honor was Corinna Cannette of Biloxi. The bridesmaids were Stephanie Bradley of Charleston, S.C.; Guiliana Bullard of Alexandria, Va.; Chris Covacevich of Biloxi; KaAnne Pope of Agricola; Monique Applewhite of Gautier; Rhonda Heath of Fairburn, Ga.; and junior bridesmaid Heather Chatham of Biloxi, niece of the bridegroom. The flower girl was KaLeigh Pope, daughter of KaAnne and John Pope of Agricola.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson

Serving as best man was Ellis Evans of Biloxi. The groomsmen were Presley LeTort, Dwayne Parker, James Ramsay, Thomas Mallett and Jeffery Englehart, all of Biloxi; John Heath of Fairburn, Ga.; and junior groomsman Aaron Wilson, son of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers were Thomas Wilson of Baton Rouge, La. and Steve Wilson of Biloxi, both brothers of the bridegroom; and Donovan Dunaway of Gautier, brother of the bride. The ring bearer was Nevin Applewhite, son of Monique and Scott Applewhite of Gautier.

The reception was at Gautier Convention Center. After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., and the Smoky Mountains, the couple is at home in Biloxi. The rehearsal dinner was at the Isle of Capri in Biloxi.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM MORGAN, the subject of this sketch was born in Alabama on August 22, 1819, and died in his 81st year on February 1, 1900, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman, where he was ill for about a year. The last four months his suffering was at times very intense, but as a good soldier he bore it with great christian patience and fortitude. In all his afflictions he was never heard to murmur. There was a spirit of prayer in his heart and words of prayer on his lips. Most of the time "Uncle Billie," as we are wont to call him, was well-known to the writer, who in nearly forty years of acquaintance does not remember ever hearing him speak evil of any one, nor remember ever hearing any one speak evil of him. He lived a strictly moral life. His wife preceded him to the mansions above a few years ago, and soon after her death he joined the M. E. church and lived a consistent christian to the end.

He leaves five children, two sons and three daughters, and a host of friends to mourn his departure, all of whom did all in their power to soften his bed of affliction. But nothing we could do would detain him from his beautiful home above. He said he was ready to go, and we are sure he was. Now, dear sorrowing ones, grieve not as those who have no hope, for if we are faithful we soon shall meet and joyfully greet "Uncle Billie" again on that plain, where sickness and sorrow, pain and death are feared no more.

A CREOLE WEDDING.

Mobile Register, March 11th.

A quiet home wedding was consummated on the fifth instant at the residence of Mr. Felix Andry, the foster parent of the bride, southwest corner of Wilkinson and St. Louis streets, the contracting parties being Paul Guichard and Miss Eugenia Matthews. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gardiner C. Tucker, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, at 12 o'clock, noon. The bride was becomingly attired in a pretty traveling suit and the groom wore the conventional costume for such occasions. A delicious wedding dinner was spread and partakón of by the happy couple and members of the family. The bride and groom were warmly congratulated, and, after the enjoyable repast, they took their departure for Pascagoula, Miss., their future home.
